THE PRESIDENT'S CORNER

Sam Hirsch, Jr.

At the recent Faculty-Alumni Dinner, there were seated on my left and right, two gentlemen, father and son, for whom I hold respect and admiration. The former, Dr. Philip H. Weltner, has been to many alumni the symbol of Oglethorpe. The manner in which he has lived, his life is reflected in the "Oglethorpe Idea." Making a life and making a living have carried Philip Weltner through more enlightening experiences than one can imagine; as educator, lawyer, community benefactor, business and financial advisor and to hundreds of us, a personal friend.

The latter was Charles L. Weltner, United States Congressman and our guest speaker for the evening. Needless to say, he was warmly received, having been both a student and a faculty member of this University.

Charles does not represent the political party of all alumni, but one thing is certain; there is in Washington a young man who is highly intelligent, firm in his convictions and dedicated to serve the best interest of his state and country.

Oglethorpe and the Weltners have given much to each other. My association with both has been quite gratifying.

Oglethorpe License Plates Available

Through the efforts and generosity of Steve Schmidt, '40 the alumni of Oglethorpe will be able to spread the name of Oglethorpe throughout the entire nation.

Steve is offering license plates with the name of Oglethorpe University embossed on them at a cost of $1.00. Steve is requesting that the dollar be sent to the Athletic Booster Club.

"We are hoping to accomplish two things with this offering," Steve said, "first, spread the name of Oglethorpe as far as we can and second, every dollar we collect goes to the benefit of the athletic department of Oglethorpe."

Those alumni desiring an Oglethorpe license plate should address their request to: The Alumni Office, make check payable to the Booster Club and please specify that it is for a license plate.

L. "Pop" Crow

L. "POP" CROW PASSES

L. "Pop" Crow, beloved head of the Humanities Department of Oglethorpe University and resident administrator of the American Humanities Foundation, died Saturday, December 15, 1962 of a heart attack. He was 65.

His full name was Leslie Frank, but he liked himself simply as L. "Pop." Although he had been a member of the Oglethorpe family for only seven years, he leaves as legacy a large family of students and alumni who have been enriched by his unselfish guidance and devotion.

In a tribute to "Pop," Dr. Donald Agnew, President, said "The college community pays tribute and expresses its lasting appreciation to "Pop" Crow. During his seven years of work as teacher and administrator, he had made a great impact on the college. He established and administered the program of the Humanities Foundation for youth leadership training. He developed a successful placement program for student employment. He developed the Alpha Phi Omega service fraternity. He worked with many student groups and organizations. He served on faculty committees. He represented the college in a wide service to the community as advisor to social agencies, as a speaker, counselor and friend.

Most of all, his contribution should be measured by his sincere and tireless interest in individuals. He has given counsel and help to hundreds of college students. His counsel related not only to academic matters, but had concern for personal problems in all their complex relationships. He was deeply concerned with human values. In countless ways and for countless individuals he had advanced good causes and has helped in the development of good people. His memory in this institution will always be alive with honor and gratitude."

"Pop" was born in Nebraska and received his B.A. degree at the University of Nebraska. He also graduated from the National Training School for Scout Executives and Post School, Lussac, France.

He was a member of the American Society of University Professors, Georgia Recreation Society, the American Camping Association, the Adult Education Association, Phi Beta Kappa, the Scout Executive Alliance, and Nebraska State Teachers Association.

He was a past district governor of Toastmasters International, a member of the Veterans of World War I, Order of the Arrow, Alpha Phi Omega, American Legion Post 65, B. P. O. E. 1602 of Decatur, and was founder of the Rotary Club of North DeKalb and Buckhead.

The educator also was a member-at-large of the North Fulton District BSA, a member of the Oglethorpe Estates Social and Civic Club and the DeKalb County Advisory Committee of the Family Service Society.

Dr. Phillips Heads Florida Junior College

Dr. Herbert E. Phillips who taught and coached athletics in Atlanta high schools and at Oglethorpe University for many years was recently inaugurated as the first president of the Lake City Florida Junior College and Forest Ranger School.

His coaching experience at Oglethorpe University was during the late 1940's and early 1950's when he was known by his intimates as "Swede."

One of his Oglethorpe basketball teams won a berth in the national (NCAA) tournament for small colleges in Kansas City.

Pop Crow Scholarship Foundation Seeks Funds

The Rotary Club of North DeKalb has established the "Pop" Crow Scholarship Foundation to assist worthy students at Oglethorpe in completing their education. Primarily, the funds will be available to those students residing in the North DeKalb area, however, this is not an absolute rule.

In paying tribute to this beloved member and founder, Rotarians point out that "Pop" assisted 115 needy students to obtain part time employment enabling them to further their studies at Oglethorpe.

Any alumni wishing to make a contribution to this memorial scholarship fund may do so by mailing a check made out to Oglethorpe University and noting on the check that it is for the "Pop" Crow Scholarship Foundation.

MARCH 22 Breakfast Meeting Of Alumni

On Friday, March 22, 1963, the Oglethorpe University alumni will gather for their annual breakfast meeting which will be held during the convention of the Georgia Education Association.

The meeting will be held in the Magnolia Room of Rich's downtown store at 8:00 A.M. Tickets are $1.50 each.

Col. Frank Shipton, '58, is chairman and states that an interesting and timely program has been planned.

BORN . . .

will perform a mixture of classical ballet and modern jazz dance.

The chorus will present selections from "Camelot", "Do Re Me" and "No Strings" in conjunction with the dance group.

"Trouble in Tahiti" by Leonard Bernstein, an opera concerning itself with the problems of modern suburbia, will be directed by Mrs. Inge Lundeen.

A tea sponsored by the Duchess Club will follow a program of music presented by the Georgia State College String Ensemble which will be conducted by Mr. Homer Holloway.

In addition, there will be student poetry awards, and an open conversation on "The Role of the Writer in Our Society" with four participants including Elizabeth Hunt.

The primary purpose of the Festival is to have as many students participate in it as possible and from the plans being made the venture will prove to be one of Oglethorpe's most successful.

The Festival is open to the public and all alumni are especially invited.

Reminiscing With The Wendell Browns

In the turmoil following the demise of the ill-fated medical school in 1944, the library, among many other things, suffered. Many volumes had been removed from the shelves to make way for medical books and stored in all available places—unused dormitory rooms, the room under the clock along with boxes of rocks and stuffed birds, and even in the coal bin. When the medical books were removed from the shelves, great gaps were left to be filled helter-skelter by any available hand from the nearest book dump in the building. Cataloguing order was abandoned, and the speeches of William Jennings Bryan rubbed shoulders with The Origin of Species and Westermack's Marriage with Little Women.

In September of that year, we started a reorganization. Whoever had time worked through the shelves, first separating the worthy and the unworthy into two piles to be checked by the rest of us. If a book had no friends it was sold to a second hand dealer or as scrap paper. Again the shelves were half emptied. The same process went on in the various rooms where the books were stored. One was the scene of a great disaster.

This room was particularly rich in worthy books, and after weeks of work, they were piled around the walls with the unworthy in a heap in the center of the floor. The man then in charge of maintenance, and other things, was told of the division, and he was to have the crew cart them to the library and to the trash. But he seemed to be no friend to any book and told the crew to chuck the whole bunch out the window and haul them off. This was duly done, and many a shelf remained forlorn.

But not for long. Soon replacements crowded the shelves, and the alcoves, and the corners, and any empty rooms, and some even had to be kept in the coal bin. Every year the problem gets worse. More space is somehow found for books, but the student body grows too, and there is not room enough for both. It seems that one or the other has to go. Many students are cooperating by not going near the library and this helps a little, but not enough.

And so a new library building with space for both in many times the quantity we have now is imminent.

Robert S. Walters, Jr. receives certificate from NIH Information Training Program

Bob Walters, '57 Completes NIH Training

Bob Walters, '57, graduated from the Information Training Program of the National Institutes of Health, Public Health Service, Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The NIH Information Training Program which is unique in the Federal Government, was initiated in 1957 to prepare the competent and highly skilled people needed to present to the public and special audiences meaningful information on the medical research conducted and supported by the National Institutes of Health.

At the completion of the training program, trainees are eligible for appointment to the staffs of the Information Offices of the Institutes and Divisions of NIH. Bob has accepted an appointment to the Information Staff of the National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Blindness.

Bob and his wife, the former Laurel Severance, and their two children reside in Rockville, Maryland.

It will be very elegant with air conditioning, elevators, processing rooms, music rooms, microfilm rooms, and individual study desks for students. We know we should not, but we will miss stumbling about between crowded shelves and through coal bins and coming on a rare and overlooked piece like The Collected Sermons of Samuel K, Minister at Ball-ground, Georgia, 1910-12.

PETRELS HEAD FOR ANOTHER RECORD YEAR

The Petrels are off and flying again in what may be the finest start in their basketball history. They have won nine and lost one, and number among their victims such teams as St. Peters, New Hampshire and Carson-Newman and have claimed their own Invitational Tournament title again.

The quick start came as a surprise to some. On the surface this looked like a year of learning for the Petrels, a year of rebuilding, a year dedicated to a tougher schedule.

The schedule is there, the toughest Oglethorpe ever faced. Teams such as Murray State, the only club to hold a victory over the Petrels, Carson-Newman, Georgia Southern, Centenary, East Carolina, Belmont Abbey and Chattanooga make each game a new experience, a new challenge.

But these Petrels have taken them all in stride. They lost to Murray State on the road, but they lost in such a manner that Coach Garland Pinholster called it one of the two finest thrills of the year for him. Beating Rhode Island was the other top thrill.

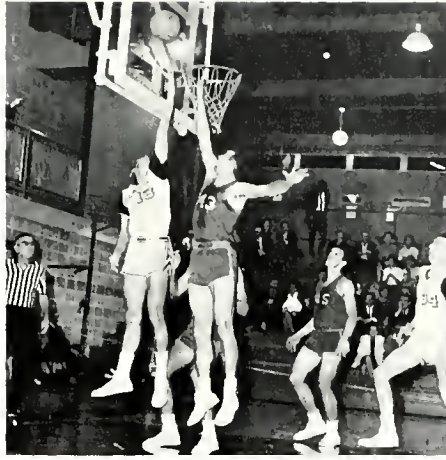

Five points was the difference, 50-45, between Murray and Oglethorpe and it could have been just the opposite with one break or two.

"The boys gave 110 per cent in that game," Coach Pinholster said, "and a coach can't ask for anymore than that. That is something I didn't expect of this team. I didn't expect to get that extra something every game, that intangible that means so much in the game of basketball." But this club, the biggest in Coach Pinholster's time, has shown that very thing.

They went to Jersey City to play St. Peters. They didn't get there until one hour and a half before the game and then they couldn't eat or sleep before they had to play. But they won, 69-58, against a team that had previously beaten Manhattan in Madison Square Garden.

St. Peters' Bill Kennedy said Oglethorpe could beat 60 per cent of the major colleges in the East. Coach Pinholster said he feared the rugged trip would take 10 to 15 points off the Petrel performance, but it didn't.

The Petrels also played host to the University of Paris and it was somewhat of a mismatch as the first team hit 82 per cent of its shots, a fantastic number even if they were able to shoot without being guarded.

They won the Invitational by beating Newberry and Valdosta State. This wasn't a shock, but it was a shock that Georgetown, co-favored with Oglethorpe, lost both of its games in the tournament.

There is much ahead for the Petrels. Ten games do not make a season and the rest of those scheduled are anything but cake walks.

The Petrels have once again proved themselves defensive masters. And this year, for the first time, they adopted the "talking zone," a defense created by a lot of movement and a strong voice. Actually, they just yell on defense and Ray Thomas yells the loudest of all.

"We've worked on this for five years," Coach Pinholster said, "and at long last we have achieved it."

Thomas is one of the new crop who shows great promise. The sophomore guard was named Most Valuable in the tournament. Other youngsters who have seen action include Billy Parker and Bill Garrigan.

The veterans, seniors Bobby Nance, Darrell Whitford and Morris Mitchell, and junior Bobby Sexton, have been impressive in the shooting department, so much so that New Hampshire coach Bill Olson said it was the best shooting team his club had faced on a four-game tour of the South.

The Petrels have been below 50 per cent only twice this season.

And they have handled such things as the zone press and the man-to-man press with authority since the Murray State game.

Whitford has emerged as an excellent ball handler and floor leader. Mitchell as a rugged rebounder and accurate shooter, Sexton as the best rebounder on the team and terrific far-out jump shooter, and Nance as the man with the soft touch and the good eye.

MOTIVATION:

The Real Key to Giving

Much has been written and said about why people give.

"From the first gift that was ever given, right up to this day, the basic and fundamental reason for giving has been to fill a need. People give of what they have, whether it be large or small."

"There are many diagnoses of the motivations for giving, such as social pressure, perpetuating a name, desire for publicity, etc. Some of this may be present in some gifts, but even in these cases the basic motivation is from the heart—the desire to do something for people. It is a desire to improve the lot of their fellow human beings, to alleviate suffering, and to raise up a better generation of citizens."

So, the question arises, why give to Oglethorpe University?

And certainly another question of importance, How can I help insure the continuance of independent, liberal arts education?

The answer to these questions is the same. And perhaps can best be answered by some quotes from President Agnew.

"Generally speaking, educational institutions are so busy repeating the patterns that are well established in academic circles that they have been able to give little attention to modifying these programs and creating significant changes in (undergraduate) education."

"The weakness in our culture that jeopardizes our continued strength is not so much a lack of skills and knowledge, not so much gross immorality (serious as this is), but it is rather an indifference on the part of the mass of citizens to the problems of human beings through a mere acceptance of the status quo."

"What we can hope to do, and what I believe we are doing within our powers, is to provide a curriculum that exposes the student to the main issues and an environment less prone to prejudice and more intellectually free than in most institutions."

"The effect of this small institution on the process of higher education is far out of proportion to its size and to its economic strength. It is imperative that such constructive vitality be preserved and supported during the coming years."

"Support for Oglethorpe is support of an indispensably significant institution."
